

INTRODUCTION

The General Assembly had a busy legislative week, with the Senate marking its bill filing deadline on Wednesday, April 3rd. The Senate has filed a total of 676 bills this session, and the House has filed a total of 626 bills, with its bill filing deadlines coming up on April 16th and April 23rd. Things are likely to get even busier as crossover, the date by which legislation must pass from the originating chamber to the other chamber, approaches. The 2019 crossover deadline is May 9th.

On May 1st teachers are planning a large rally at the General Assembly and since that is coming up soon, education bills have been popping up at the General Assembly. One such bill, House Bill 377, would reduce the number of tests given to students and passed the House by a vote of 110 to 2. The bill would eliminate state end-of-grade (EOG) tests in grades 3-8 in reading and math with shorter tests given throughout the year. It would also eliminate the state end-of-course (EOC) exams for biology, English and math for high school students.

Senate Bill 438, called the Excellent Public Schools Act of 2019, would change the state's Read to Achieve program, which has had mixed results. Under the bill, K-3 teachers would develop individual reading plans for students who are not reading at grade level, the state would revise teacher training standards to promote early childhood literacy and the Department of Public Instruction would develop a model curriculum on reading.

A move is also afoot to encourage retired teachers to return in high-needs public schools. Senate Bill 399 would allow retired teachers to work at Title I schools or schools that receive a D or F on the State's performance system without it impacting their retirement benefits. Under the bill, teachers could earn $35,000 to $40,000 a year and still collect their current pensions. Sen. Phil Berger is a primary sponsor of the bill, indicating it has some firepower behind it.

Finally, Superintendent of Public Instruction Mark Johnson and several Republican lawmakers made quite a bit of news when they announced legislation that would divert school supply money (no additional money provided just re-directing the money directly to teachers) from local districts, sending it

That closely watched bill to slow State Treasurer Dale Folwell's changes to the State Health Plan took another step forward. House Bill 184, which would create a commission to study the future of the State Health Plan, passed the House on a bipartisan vote of 75 to 36. The bill now moves to the Senate where its future is not certain.

Another hotly contested issue surfaced this week, as legislators debated a proposal to require law enforcement agencies to cooperate with Federal immigration authorities. The N.C. Sheriffs' Association came out in opposition to House Bill 370, but the bill still was approved by the House. The new sheriffs in Wake and Mecklenburg counties both ran on platforms that included opposition to 287(g), a controversial partnership with ICE that enables law enforcement to check the legal status of inmates in county jails.

BILLS OF INTEREST

HOUSE BILL 499, Omnibus Gun Changes, would, among other provisions, effectively provide for "Constitutional Carry," allowing any citizen who is currently legally permitted to own a firearm to carry that firearm in a concealed manner. Current law requires a Concealed Carry permit to carry concealed, a permit that requires a background check and training classes to obtain, and is not available to those who have been convicted of certain crimes. The bill would also:

- provide that legislators, legislative employees, and qualified former sworn law enforcement officers with concealed handgun permits are authorized to carry a concealed handgun on the premises of the State legislative buildings and grounds, with an option for the Legislative Services Commission to adopt a rule requiring the qualified individuals to provide notice to the Chief of the General Assembly Special Police before carrying the handgun on the premises or adopt a rule prohibiting the carrying of a firearm in the gallery of the State legislative building;
- define school operating hours and adds that the restrictions on possessing a firearm when attending a school-sponsored curricular or extracurricular activity do not apply if the person is not a participant in, or chaperone or spectator of, the extracurricular activity and the extracurricular activity is conducted in a public place;
- define volunteer school faculty guardian and creates an exception from the statute's provisions restricting guns for a volunteer school faculty guardian while on the ground of the school the person is employed by or assigned to, who meets six criteria. Would give authority to the governing body or entity of a school to opt out and instead prohibit a person from possessing a handgun on the grounds of the school or schools under its control;
- provide that the statute does not apply to a person in a vehicle on a road not maintained by the school that crosses the educational property if the person has a weapon, including an open or concealed handgun, within the locked vehicle and the person stays in the vehicle while crossing the property and only unlocks the vehicle for the entrance or exit of someone else;
- authorize the Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission to establish and administer the School Safety Guardian Program to provide active shooter training to volunteer school faculty guardians;
- clarify that weapons used in specified crimes must be returned to their rightful owners, unless the rightful owner is the convicted defendant, in which case the presiding judge may dispose of the weapon as specified at the judge's discretion. If the weapon is owned by the defendant and the defendant is not convicted as provided in the statute, then the presiding judge would be required to order the weapon be returned to the defendant;

- create a new Class 1 misdemeanor for persons who arm themselves with an unusual and dangerous weapon for the purpose of terrifying others, and go about on public highways in a manner to cause terror to the people. Provides that no person may be convicted of this crime based only upon the person's possession or carrying of a handgun, whether openly or concealed;
- change the statute, which prohibits possession of a firearm by a felon by establishing that the statute does not apply to those whose firearm rights were restored prior to December 1, 1995, the persons' prior convictions were for nonviolent felonies, and the persons have not been convicted of any subsequent felonies on or after December 1, 1995;
- allow a court issuing an emergency or ex parte order to order the defendant to surrender all firearms, machine guns, and ammunition to a licensed firearms dealer rather than the sheriff;
- require a sheriff to store surrendered firearms or ammunition in a manner designed to reasonably ensure against any deterioration or damage other than that caused by time;
- require the defendant to notify the sheriff of the intent to surrender or sell to the dealer and complete the surrender or sale within 24 hours of service of the order;
- require the defendant to surrender all permits to purchase and permits to carry concealed firearms to the sheriff;
- create written notification requirements for the dealer to submit to the sheriff within 24 hours of receipt of possession;
- remove the current authority of cities and counties to regulate the display of firearms on the streets, sidewalks, alleys, or other public property;
- require the State Board of Education, in consultation with law enforcement agencies and firearms associations, to develop a firearm education course that can be offered as a high school elective;
- require the State Board of Education, in consultation with the Wildlife Resources Commission, the Division of Marine Fisheries, and the Wildlife Management Institute, to develop a comprehensive course on the North American Model for Wildlife Conservation that can be offered as a high school elective;
- subject to voter approval at the statewide election on November 3, 2020, would amend Section 30, Article I of the Constitution, removing the provision that specifies that the Section does not justify the practice of carrying concealed weapons or prevent the General Assembly from enacting penal statutes against the practice; and
- specify that, unless otherwise provided, the remainder of the act is effective December 1, 2019, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.
